PANASENSE is looking for experienced solutions providers, computer hardware manufacturers and systems integrators with an established and growing customer base, to increase ONCALL market presence.

ONCALL offers a broad portfolio of capabilities with a modular platform that can be resold as-is or used as the foundation for value-added solutions across a wide range of diverse applications and activities.

ONCALL provides resellers with scalability and flexibility options to develop tightly integrated customised solutions for niche and special applications without programming skills, maximising added value, and, ensuring loyalty and repeat business from contented customers.

If your company has a proven background in HVAC, building management / automation systems and you are keen to leverage global trends and opportunities in energy monitoring and efficiency, ONCALL can provide you with a highly flexible platform to meet those goals.

ONCALL will be of interest to integrators who specialise in the design, specification or management of Datacenters and mission critical Server Rooms. ONCALL features and exceeds most of the capabilities inherent in the feature sets of popular DCIM solutions. At a fraction of the price and with low cost of ownership, ONCALL does not require the replacement of asset management systems. Talk to us today if your customers are considering investment in DCIM, we can save them money.

Hardware manufacturers needing front-end software for their products are of interest to PANASENSE. Subject to agreement and negotiation, PANASENSE is open to re-branding ONCALL where an OEM opportunity would be mutually beneficial. ONCALL supports a variety of industry standard protocols.

Our Partner Program is designed to support and reward your sales efforts.

PANASENSE is particularly keen to develop its business in the UK, Nordic regions, and Far East. ONCALL has an installed base in the Middle East, North America, mainland Europe, and the UK.

If you have a one-off sales opportunity or a Partnering Program is not for you, please contact us to discuss how you can still become a reseller and make that sale!
